BILLS of CREDIT-THE MISSISSIPPIAN.

A writer in the Mississippian, who signs himself "Nuna," says that the State bonds are bills of credit, and as the constitution of the United States forbids the emission of bills of credit by the States, he argues that the State Bonds were in violation of the constitution of the United States. He asks:

"What is a bill "bill of credit?" According to my conception of it, its true meaning is, a written paper of any kind by which credit is pascured' or to which honor is given; or in other words, it is that by which a person or a untion trusts and confides in another person or another nation, so as to admit

Now this is a good diffiction of a letter of credit, or a bank check, but is in no way ap-

He then proceeds:

"I will, for fear it may be thought I am in error as to the meaning of a bill of credit, give the definition of Chancellor Kent, which I conceive embraces as fully the case of the State bonds as it is possible for the one which I have given to do. He says:

"Bills of credit, within the purview of the constitution of the United States, prohibiting the emission of them, are declared to mean promissory notes, or bills issued exclusively on the credit of the State, and for the payment of which, the faith of the State is only pledged."

Now had this just "Numa" proceeded in his investigation to the closing sentence of the paragraph of Kent from which he took the extract, he would have found the follow-

(Ist Kent.

The declaration referred to, was made by Chief Justice Marshall, in Craig et al. vs. the State of Missouri. (4th Peters, 432)

This father of our law says, also: "To emit bills of credit conveys to the mind the idea of issuing paper intended to circulate through the cummunity, for ordinary purposes as money, which paper is redeemable at a future day. This is the sense in which the terms have been always under-

Renovation of the Peach Tree .- The editor of the new England farmer says that a gentleman residing in Cambridge, informed him, that charcoal placed around the deceased peach stock, was serviceable. He imme diately removed the soil from around the trunk of a sickly iree in his garden, supplied its place with charcoal, and was surprised at its sudden renovation, and subsequent rapidity of its growth, and the tenacity with which the fruit held on to the branches, and the un-

JACKSON, Aug. 13, 1841.

We observe in our exchanges, that the country generally is becoming sickly. Jackson never has enjoyed more uninterrupted health; the mortality being almost nothing, and confined entirely to the imperate. For three or four days past, we have had copious rains, which were much needed, both for the comfort of our citizens ond the benefit of our crops. Our atmosphere is temperate and agreeable; the thermometer ranging from 70 to 80.-True Issue.

We would like to be informed by Mr. Tucker, or some one of his triends, if he has always been against a State debt, why he voted to pledge the faith of the State for the offspring of speculation and speculators we were swindling, it would not have made much difference to suck the fund mungers in PEARL RIVER .- We are pleased to learn
